French Cabinet Okays Premier Plans for Stopping Rebellion

Decision Reached in Stormy, 13-Hour Session; Calls for Ouster of Grandval and Sultan

PARIS (AP)—The French cabinet today approved the proposals of Premier Edgar Faure for ending the bloody Moroccan uprising.

The decision to support Faure was taken in a stormy, 13-hour cabinet session, which at times threatened to topple his government.

Faure's plan calls for the ouster of both the French resident general, Gilbert Grandval, who is hated by French colonials and right-wing elements of parliament for his "soft" policy in Morocco, and Sultan Sidi Mohammed Moulay Ben Araf, who is bitterly attacked by the Moroccan nationalists.

The premier hopes by the two moves to appease both the nationalists and the French who have demanded a more stern policy toward them by the resident general.

Form Throne Council
Informed sources said the cabinet agreed to accept Grandval's resignation within the next day or two and will appoint Tunisian Resident General Pierre Boyer de la Tour, to take his place.

If he accepts, the government will ask Boyer de la Tour to leave for Rabat on Thursday to assume his difficult new post.

He served as resident general in the sister French North African protectorate of Tunisia while the difficult home-rule agreement for that area was negotiated there.

The Faure compromise plan calls for formation of a Moroccan throne council to take over the powers of the sultan. The council then will form by Sept. 12 a representative Moroccan government, including nationalists.

Home Rule Reforms
After that has been completed, the Moroccan government will negotiate with the French home rule reforms, less far-reaching than those accorded Tunisia. But the reforms will end the direct rule of the protectorate from Paris.

The cabinet acted swiftly today under urgent warnings that failure to find an early solution might touch off new bloody violence in Morocco.

Be Careful Burning

Saturday at 11 a. m. the fire department was called to Dorris Heights to extinguish a grass fire started from burning rubbish. This was the fourth such run made by the department in a week, Chief Martin stated.

Two motorists from Gary, Ind., were arrested by Chief of Police Ross Lane Saturday morning and fined a total of $234.50 by Police Magistrate Vern Joyner Jr.

The driver of the automobile, John D. Wilson, was charged with drunken driving, illegal transportation of liquor and running a stop sign. He was fined $252.00.

Rudolph Hegi, passenger with Wilson, was charged with drunkenness and resisting an officer. His fine totaled $32.80.

Chief of Police Ross Lane today requested all drivers of vehicles to be extremely careful as school will be starting in a few days and hundreds of children will be crossing our city streets going to school and returning to their homes.

Chief Lane asked that everyone observe school traffic lights and stop signs and said that stop meant to come to a complete halt, not just slow down and then proceed to cross intersections.

"We are going to 'crack down' on those drivers that only slow down at a stop sign instead of coming to a complete stop," Lane declared.

Hunt Uncle Of Murdered Mattoon Girl

Comb Wooded Area
For Unmarried Broom Factory Worker

SULLIVAN, Ill. (AP)—Authorities today suspected the uncle of slain Doris Edwards, 15, Mattoon, may have escaped their manhunt after bloodhounds failed to flush the man from the Kaskaskia River bottomlands.

Moultrie County Sheriff Glen W. Braden said his men today brought back the bloodhounds without trace of Lawrence Houser, 41, unmarried broom factory worker missing since before the girl was killed.

Four hundred men—including 200 county, local and state police, plus 200 volunteer civilians—kept watches and patrols around a 1,500-acre wooded area between here and Findlay.

"The woods and brush in that area are so thick you'd have to step on him to find him," Braden said. "If he sticks to that river he could go a long way before he was seen."

"Somebody thought they saw him last night but I couldn't tell you if he's still in there or not," Braden said.

"It looks like a jungle in there," Patrolman Marvin Titus of Mattoon, Ill., explained, "and the wanted man knows it like the back of his hand, every hill and hollow."

"We'd walk right over him and not see him," Titus said.

Police said they believed their waiting game would pay off because there is no food in the woods and only a stream of water.

Brashear zoomed home in front with a time of 10 minutes, 49.34 seconds.

Egypt Planes Over Israeli Intercepted

One of Four New Provocations Along
Tense Boundary

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Israel charged that a flight of Egyptian planes flew over Israeli territory today and were intercepted and turned back by the Israeli air force.

The incident was one of four new provocations reported today along the increasingly tense border of Israel and her Arab neighbors.

Maj. Dan Gov. Israeli military spokesman, gave no details of the air incident and it was not clear whether the Egyptian and Israeli planes had become engaged in combat.

On the ground, Egypt charged that Israeli troops committed three new aggressions against Egyptian-held territory in the Gaza Strip area.

A spokesman for the Egyptian army headquarters in Cairo said Israeli troops fired on two Egyptian outposts in East Gaza for 90 minutes early today. He said other Israeli forces also fired on the village of Beit Hanoun, in the Gaza Strip during a meeting of the Egyptian-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission in that village. He said the United Nations chairman of the commission suspended the meeting and ordered a cease-fire.

Several homes were destroyed and at least 100 damaged by shelling bolts of steel. Sixty fuel tanks, containing about 42 million gallons of oil and oil products were lost.

"She definitely does not know who hit her," Sheriff's Deputy Paul Terrell said. He went to question the girl in company with State Police Capt. John Stuper and State Investigation Supt. James Christensen.

Terrell admitted this left investigators without their biggest hope for solving the case.

Some Evacuees Permitted to Return Home

700 Affected Live
In Fringe Area;
Blaze Under Control

By GENE BLUDEAU
United Press Staff Correspondent

WHITING, Ind. (AP)—About half the 1,500 persons evacuated by the multi-million dollar oil refinery fire were permitted to return to their homes today.

The approximately 700 householders affected by Police Chief James Mullany's order lived at the fringes of the area which was devastated by the fire. The remainder of the evacuees must wait until gasoline fumes have been cleared from the sewers and the danger of the flames spreading has been eliminated.

Two storage tanks still blazed today, but authorities said the fire was under control.

One thousand company employees worked through the night fighting the fires, which burst from the cores of a staggering explosion at 6:15 a. m. Saturday morning.

The blast, heard for 100 miles, roared from a 26-story cracking plant located in the 1,600-acre refinery. Chain reaction explosions among the fuel tanks sent tons of metal flying into slumbering homes. Two persons were killed, hundreds were injured, and 10 per cent of the refinery became flaming, twisted rubble.

The firefighters planned to let the first burn themselves out while they concentrate on keeping them from spreading to more giant fuel tanks. An investigation to determine the cause of the disaster will have to wait until the flames die.

Looks Bombed-Out
In Whiting, large areas looked as if they had been hit by an air raid.

A two-square-mile area near the refinery was a deserted wasteland. The region's 500 families—about 1,500 persons—were ordered to find food and beds as best they could at disaster centers or the homes of friends.

An emergency civil defense meeting Sunday night decided that the families could not move back to their homes until late today.

The entire city of Whiting was under the equivalent of martial law. Two hundred National Guardsmen patrolled the streets, guarding against looters and demanding identification from anyone who tried to approach the danger area.

A billowing smoke cloud hung over the city of 10,000, located 30 miles south of Chicago's Loop. Officials said fuel still ran in the sewers in the 40-block danger area and fumes in the air made smoking a hazard.

Damage to the refinery was estimated at 10 million dollars by company officials.

Several homes were destroyed and at least 100 damaged by shelling bolts of steel. Sixty fuel tanks, containing about 42 million gallons of oil and oil products were lost.

Heat Wave Still With Midwest

By United Press
A late summer heat wave kept August dog days going in much of the nation today.

The east coast was spared the threat of Hurricane Edith, which apparently was due to miss the U. S. mainland. Instead, the weakening storm moved in the general direction of Bermuda.

Meanwhile, the third big heat wave of the season droned on in the Midwest and Great Plains.

The 96.8 degrees in Chicago Sunday was two-tenths of a degree shy of a record for the date and made it the second hottest summer in the city's history. Weathermen said the Chicago summer heat record was due to fall next month.

Temperatures went into the 100s in parts of Kansas and Iowa and into the 90s elsewhere in the Midwest and Great Plains. No relief was in sight until at least Wednesday, forecasters said.

Quest for Asian Peace

BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

The tide of negotiations between the United States and Red China moves slowly at Geneva. The conference cannot seem to get past the question of the return of 41 U. S. civilians held by the Reds.

If the discussions stick on so relatively minor an issue as this, one may well imagine how they might bog down over the matter of a settlement at Formosa or other major danger spots in the Far East.

Still, the Red Chinese continue to indicate that they want a peaceful solution of the Formosa question and similar explosive issues. And, however long drawn out and perhaps unfruitful these talks might prove to be, the United States obviously is committed not to turn its back on the conference table.

Actually, as Keyes Beech of the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service recently observed, Peiping's "peace" approach works a considerably greater hardship on two other participants in the Asian drama: Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China and President Syngman Rhee of South Korea.

"The hopes of both men thrive on tensions," Beech writes from Tokyo. "To put it bluntly, they need a war."

That's a harsh statement, but it appears to be painfully true.

Chiang knows full well that short of general war in Asia, there is no prospect that the United States will assist him in an attempted return from Formosa to the Chinese mainland.

By the same token, Rhee understands that the 1953 Korean truce shifted the struggle for a united Korea to the political arena. He realizes that a political solution is remote, and that only a big war would produce the kind of fluidity in Asia that would once more open the way for military operations against Communist North Korea.

The evidence of their public utterances suggests that Chiang and Rhee — especially the latter — are willing to have the world take the gamble of a general Asian war in the hope it will allow fulfillment of their dreams.

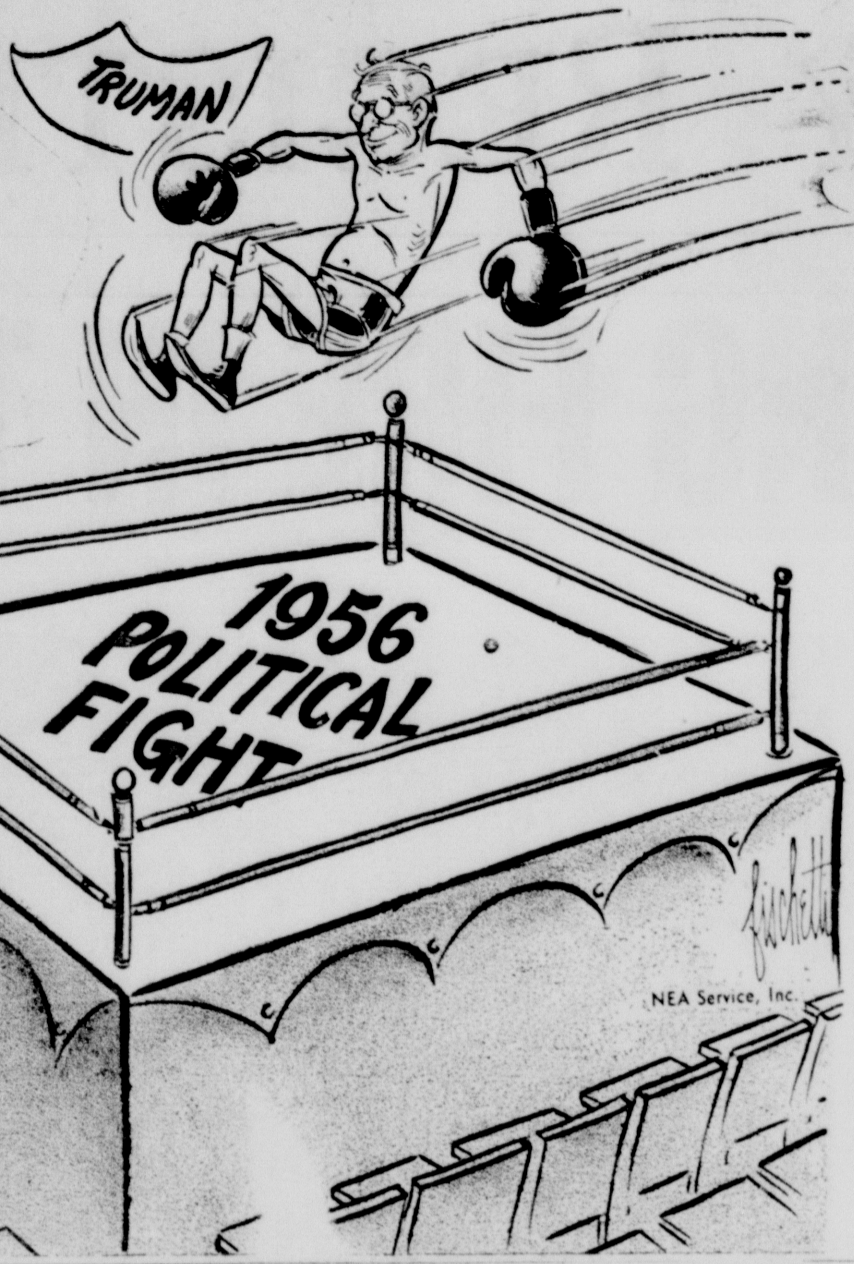

Naturally America is not sympathetic to this approach. But it is thoroughly sympathetic with the goals of these two leaders, who still are ranged on the side of freedom in the Asian struggle.

Americans are deeply regretful, too, that the turn of events and the circumstances of military power in Asia have made it so difficult for these uncompromising foes of communism to realize their aspirations.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Big Corporations Get New Long-Term Power Licenses From Power Commission; Alcoa, Montana Power, and Pacific Gas and Electric Are Favored; Companies Waited For Ike's New Commissioners To Take Office.

WASHINGTON — To understand the bitter battle over hydroelectric power and the lobbying pressures behind it you have to go back to the days when any utility could (and did) build a dam wherever it wanted regardless of the effect on people downstream or elsewhere.

Finally, in 1920, Congress stopped this, citing the constitution which provides that navigable streams are under the jurisdiction of the United States, not of a single state. Congress required that the federal government must regulate the leasing of water-power dam sites and established a federal power commission to issue these leases. Congress further specified that they could be for 50 years only, after which the utility would have amortized its investment, made a profit and the dam site would be available for public use.

However, believe it or not, the new Eisenhower Federal Power

Commissioners are now in the process of issuing leases for 99 years, not 50 years.

To show how they are issuing these extra licenses and to illustrate the power of certain big corporations, take a look at the case of Aluminum Corporation of America, the Mellon-controlled giant which once had a complete monopoly on aluminum and was the object of a Justice Department suit to break that monopoly.

ADAMANT ALCOA

Alcoa was so adamant in its refusal to have its hydroelectric power leases regulated by the federal government that in 1941 it refused to build a power plant on the Little Tennessee river despite approaching world war and the urgent need of aluminum for the airplane industry.

Alcoa on October 1, 1940, had filed a declaration of intent to build the power plant, but finally withdrew it, rather than to submit to federal regulation.

This caused the Federal Power Commission, then under Roosevelt, to state, on March 8, 1941: "Notwithstanding the public interest in Alcoa, through its subsidiaries, in effect demonstrated that in its national defense effort it was unwilling to accept the reasonable limitations on unearned increment in the value of its power project provided by Congress in the federal power acts."

"The Fontana situation is not the only instance in which Alcoa and its subsidiaries have shown complete unwillingness to accept provisions of the federal law regarding the consequences to the national defense for the public which they serve," the FPC continued. "The refusal of Alcoa's subsidiary to construct the Fontana project when required to obtain a license indicates that not even the urgent demand of national defense can alter its apparent determination never willingly to submit any of its hydro projects to the duly enacted requirement of federal law."

THIRTEEN YEARS OF LITIGATION
Meanwhile Alcoa continued to buck the FPC regarding the licensing of three power plants already built on the Little Tennessee and Cheoah rivers near the Tennessee-North Carolina border. When Andy Mellon was secretary of the Treasury and one of the most potent industrial figures in America, his aluminum company got away with this. But in 1941, the FPC, under Roosevelt took steps to compel license.

Thirteen years of bitter litigation followed. Finally, almost a year ago, October 25, 1954, with new GOP commissioners on the FPC, Alcoa applied for a license. But in doing so, it devised a new package plan. It lumped the three old, unlicensed projects into a package with a new "Talassee" development.

So the obliging new power commission did not issue a license retroactively to cover the back years Alcoa had been operating without a license. Instead on March 17, 1955, it handed Alcoa a lush bonanza. It granted a license for the entire package which will not expire until 2005 A. D.

Another big company to get in on the package license bonanza is Montana Power, organized by the giant Electric Bond and Share. Sidney A. Mitchell, a former official of Electric Bond and Share and son of its founder, Sidney Z. Mitchell, has been Herbert Hoover's right hand man on the Government Reorganization Commission and was responsible for much of its anti-public-power recommendations.

Montana Power had eight power plants on the Missouri river built between 1906 and 1930 which were never licensed. The FPC in 1943 brought suit to require licenses and did not win until after almost ten years of battling. Finally in 1952 Montana Power applied for eight licenses and on February 3, 1953, was given one of the eight, retroactively, to expire in 1979.

HELPERFUL DELAY
This did not please Montana Power at all. However, this was only 13 days after Eisenhower took office and the old Truman FPC commissioners were still acting. So Montana Power asked for a rehearing, and put a "package" plan before the new Eisenhower commissioners.

It lumped eight old dam sites with a single new proposal, and on June 14, 1955, applied for a single license to cover the nine dams. If the FPC continues its present procedure, as it seems sure to do, the license will now expire in 2005 A. D. Since one dam was built in 1906 this would make a total lease of 99 years.

Third company to stretch out its leases is Pacific Gas and Electric, whose president James Black attends Ike's stag dinners and is a member of Secretary Sinclair Weeks' Business Advisory Council.

Black has two dams, the Caribou and Almaror developments in California due to expire in 1968. So on January 19, 1955, the new Federal Power Commission gave Pacific Gas and Electric a new license for a "package" covering these two old projects plus two proposed new projects called "Bel-don" and "Caribou No. 2" and obligingly extended a license until 2004 A. D.

In addition, PG & E "packaged" its Strawberry and Relief dams on the Stanislaus river near San Francisco, due to expire in 1966, with its Melones reservoir power plant, due to expire in 1977.

The FPC then came through with a brand new package license extending up to 2005 A. D.

Letter, Newspaper File Tell of Lincoln's Association with Jews, Masonic Order

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — New light is shed on Abraham Lincoln's association with the Jews and with the Masonic order by a recently discovered letter and newspaper file, according to articles in the summer issue of the Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society which will be out this week.

Dr. Bertram W. Korn, rabbi of Reform Congregation Keneseth of Philadelphia, tells of a newly found letter which Lincoln wrote on Nov. 4, 1862, to Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton saying: "I believe we have not yet appointed a Hebrew—As Cherie M. Levy, is well vouched, as a capable and faithful man, let him be appointed an Assistant Quarter-Master, with the rank of Captain."

Dr. Korn's article cites this and other references to Jews in Lincoln's writings which he concludes show that Lincoln was "conscious of the anti-Semitic prejudices which rose to a high point during the tensions and crises of the Civil War and went out of his way to be kind to Jews."

The newly discovered newspaper file is one "The Masonic Trowel" which was published in Springfield. Only a few copies of this paper are known to exist but the Illinois State Historical Library recently acquired a bound volume of its first five years, 1862 to 1866. The editor was Harman G. Reynolds who said he had known Lincoln since 1840.

In the issue of May 15, 1865, the first after the assassination, he published a number of poems, articles, letters and editorials about Lincoln. One of these reveals that Lincoln had considered becoming a Mason but at the time "no one had asked him to join." Later "he made up his mind to be initiated but after thinking the matter over he said that he would be liable to be charged with wrong motives," so he deferred "the matter to some future time."

Among the other articles in the Historical Society's Journal is a biographical sketch of the Rev. William H. Milburn, the blind preacher from Jacksonville who became chaplain of Congress and an internationally famous lecturer. Author of the article is Dr. Clarence P. McClelland, president emeritus of MacMurray College, Jacksonville. The Rev. Mr. Milburn knew Lincoln and wrote that one of his boyhood recreations on his visits to Springfield was to loaf in front of James Lamb's store at the southeast corner of the square until Lincoln would stop by for a story-telling session.

Equity is that exact rule of righteousness or justice which is to be observed between man and man. The gigantic 59,650-ton flattop, hailed by the Navy as "the most powerful weapon in naval history," makes its run into the Atlantic, unconcerned about the new Hurricane Edith.

The Forrestal, one of the most controversial ships in U. S. naval history, had been scheduled to make its first trial voyage on Aug. 15 for its builder, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. But Hurricane Diane cancelled that.

Now the builder's sea trial has been combined with the Navy's preliminary acceptance test into one cruise.

"KID STUFF" DRIVERS

Should Have Their Heads Examined, Too!

Sure these drivers will check their oil and water. But if they could only see themselves in traffic—breaking rules, ignoring every courtesy like youngsters on a spree—they'd agree, it's their heads that could really use the checkup. It's time they learned the truth. People respect good drivers—but detest "second childhood" highway shufflers who take chances with other people's lives.

Who Rides With Wyatt

by Will Henry

THE STORY: Wyatt Earp is determined to enforce the "no-gun" rule in Tombstone, Ariz., and the gun-toughs are equally determined to take care of the new deputy sheriff. Included in the bad bunch is Johnny Ringo, whose life was saved by Wyatt in San Angelo, Tex.

XIII

After his early morning brush with Ringo and his pals in the Crystal Palace, Wyatt was fair to middling busy. First, there was the coroner's inquest over the dead boys from the stage holdup the night before. This took no more than 10 minutes, with Dr. George Goodfellow giving the bodies a short look and advising the six good members and true of the Citizen's Safety Committee, who'd been lined up by Mayor Clum as a coroner's jury, that a verdict of mighty justifiable homicide was indicated.

After that, there was the business of trying to find a few deputies to swear in for the fun that was bound to hit town around 6 o'clock, providing Curly Bill and his bunch took up Wyatt's challenge. But none of the sober citizens of Goose Flats had lost any fear of gun-toughs. Word had got around by now that Stilwell and his bunch had left town by the Burnett's Spring road. Nobody needed to be reminded that Sulphur Springs Ranch lay over across the Dragons in that direction.

Result was, the winter sun got down back of the Whetstones and 6 o'clock rolled around while Wyatt was still whistling into the wind for his deputies. He was good and mad about it you can bet, when, just before 6, the door to the jail office eased open and Ferd Wagner walked in.

"Ferd . . ." It wasn't often Wyatt showed any start.

"Headed for Fairbank," grinned the other. "I was on the dayrun down from Benson. Meant to lay over in Fairbank, but heard you was looking for a deputy or two and not having any luck."

Wagner was a secret agent for Wells Fargo. One of that little-known crew of brave men who worked as spies for the express companies, getting less pay than a top stage-driver and often as not drawing their final check over the gun signature of some road agent who had caught them working out of bounds.

"Yeah, you know how it is,"

Wyatt nodded. "Company sure is pleased with the way you stretched them two kids of Curly Bill's. Old Monk Wilson has got it spread clear to Phoenix and back, the neat way you done it. Office up to Tucson wired down that if you ever needed a job, you knew where you'd be welcomed on paper money in a passed plate."

Wyatt got a badge out of the drawer, came around the desk and hung it on Wagner's vest. Then he grinned. "I'll thank you to notice that isn't just any old deputy badge, mister. That's the one the town marshal turned in when I took over. As of now, you're the new town marshal of Tombstone."

Obstacle, Eh?

On His Own

Ferd! His voice sobered, the dry good nature gone out of it. "Now, mind you, be careful. Don't make any play unless you have to. You're just to back me and see I don't take one between the shoulder blades. I'll do the talking and what forcing needs to be done. Understand?"

"Sure, there'll be no trouble with you handling it."

It was just a little after 6 when Wyatt and Ferd Wagner eased up Allen toward the Palace. They kept on the north side of the streets, staying close in to the buildings, where the shadows were solid ink. At the O.K. Stable, Wyatt told Ferd to wait up a minute while he went inside to check what horses might be in there with lather between their legs. He was back out in no time.

"My boy Ringo, along with two each of the Clantons and McLowrys. Then Pony Deal, Frank Patterson and the old he-coon, himself."

"Curly Bill," groaned Ferd unhappily.

"As ever was," grunted Wyatt. "Come on, I got something I want to get over at my shack. Got a hunch this'll be a night for barrel-bending."

At the shack, Ferd held the lamp and watched him rummage in his warbag. Ferd grinned nervously at what he dug out and held up to the light.

Once a man had seen the Buntline Special, he didn't forget it. There'd been only five of them ever made, all to old Ned Buntline's personal order. One had gone to Wyatt, the other four to some brother star-wearers, just as famous in their own ways as the big man himself: Bill Tilghman, Neal Brown, Charlie Bassett, Bat Masterson.

The Special was a heavy-frame gun with an outside 12-inch barrel. It was a weapon made for the risky art of buffaloeing.

"You allow it's going to be real close work, likely."

"Likely. Always like to work inside a man's reach when he's liquored up."

"They bin drinking, I guess."

"Enough. None of them checked their guns. They still got them on and allowing they mean to keep them there."

From Allen Street a well-oiled bass was announcing to the winter night that the lad behind the loud mouth was a kinky wolf from the Chiricahuas, was uncurried below the hooks, and didn't mean to have any shooting irons lifted off his hip.

"He's about in front of the Bird Cage, judging from his yammer. We'll go around the block, you north, me south. Move in easy along the buildings and let me have the first whack at him."

From Aswan in southern Egypt to the Nile Delta, the banks of the river are settled and cultivated to a depth of only about 10 miles back from the shores. Egypt's borders enclose a land area equal to Texas and New Mexico combined. Yet it squeezes a population of 22,221,000, two and a half times that of Texas, into three percent of this space.

Body of Robinson Man Missing 2 Days Found

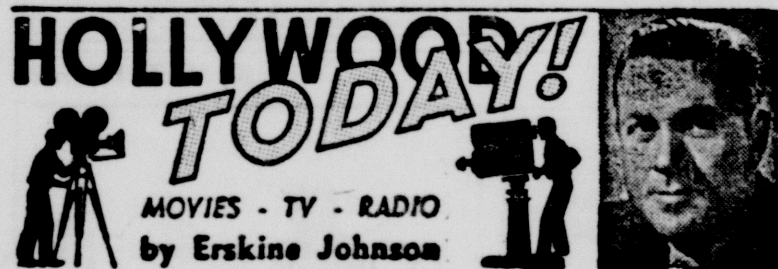

WILLOW HILL, Ill. (AP) — The body of a Robinson salesman who had been missing two days was found near here Sunday.

A coroner's jury ruled that Harry G. Baker, 52, had died of a cerebral hemorrhage while squirrel hunting. His loaded gun was found near his body.

Baker had been missing since Friday. Eugene Hargis, a Jasper County farmer, discovered the body when he noticed Baker's car parked at the edge of a wooded area Sunday.

The Daily Register, 25c a week by carrier boy.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood and Grapevine: Kid star Brandon de Wilde of "Come Back, Shane!" fame is about to retire, at the age of 13, to attend regular school classes and to live, his parents say, "a normal life." The film version of the hit novel, "Good-bye, My Lady," is good-bye for Brandon until he's old enough to decide for himself whether he will be doctor, lawyer or comeback actor.

There's a new twist on the Hollywood double-cross — the double-tap. Two executives struggling for power at a major film studio don't know it, but each has his telephone tapped — by the other.

U-I executives have just about given up trying to persuade Jean Peters to sign on the dotted line as Audie Murphy's co-star in "The Charles Russell Story." It isn't the script, it's the background. Years ago Jean and Audie were a hot romantic item.

There's a "Where do I go from here?" look on the face of Rock Hudson, who returns to U-I soon after the best role of his career in "Giant" at Warner Bros. Whether his roles will remain in high gear is a big question he's commenting on only with a curious "it remains to be seen."

JAMES DEAN and Chill Willis crossed words during the Texas location scenes for the same film. Said Dean: "You don't like me, do you?" Said Chill: "I don't know — give me a little time."

But now it's Chill enthusing about Dean's acting ability: "I saw this lad do a scene and we're all going to be paintings on a backdrop."

Producer Henry Ginsberg shrugs off Dean's one-day AWOL from the set with "You always have your little problems. There was a slip-up. I've heard of previous difficulties with him — but not on this picture."

Now that she's definitely decided on a show-business career, 18-year-old Cathy Crosby is in a 10-to-12 hour daily whirl of vocal lessons, ballet interviews and recording sessions. Other day papa Bob asked her: "Well, what's the toughest part of it all?" There was no question in Cathy's mind. "Dieting," she replied.

EAR WITNESS: The controversial "I Am a Camera" won a C (condemned) rating from the Legion of Decency. . . . Fox picked up Dan Dailey's option for another two years. . . . Paramount would like to team Bill Holden and Silvana Mangano in a movie. . . . Judy Garland's slimmed down to 115 pounds for her TV debut next month.

Marquee sign: "Rear Window" — "Give a Girl a Break."

Hollywood's planned Motion Picture Exposition and Hall of Fame as a tourist attraction didn't jell.

Announced reason: "Rising costs." Inside explanation: "Industry inertia."

Ben Blue explaining his quick return as the star of a Las Vegas floor show: "A week ago I came here, won a lot of money and so the bosses asked me to work it out."

Virginia Mayo, only star name left on Warner's full-time contract list, isn't expected to resign when option time arrives — this fall. She remained on the payroll three years ago by agreeing to skip a salary boost. Since then she's been on loan-out except for one Warner film, "The Silver Chalice."

THIS IS HOLLYWOOD, Mrs. Jones: Six of current fan magazines have exclusive stories of Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds ranging from "Made For Each Other" to "It Was All a Mistake." Take your choice. . . . Gary Crosby's recording "Accentuate the Positive," a tune made famous by his dad. . . . It was "No Thanks" again from Fred MacMurray and wife June Haver to a CBS offer for a Mr. and Mrs. series on TV. . . . Red Skelton was all set to crash the recent affair at the new Beverly Hilton here as Freddie the Freelander. A Hilton high-up finally said "No."

Attends Midwest Soil Conservation Meet

Alva Gholson, chairman of the Saline County Soil Conservation district, is attending the annual meeting for the eight midwestern states of the National Association of Soil Conservation districts being held at Madison, Wis., today and tomorrow.

Tonight he will appear on the program to discuss the activities of the Saline County district. He accompanied B. B. Clark, state conservationist of the Soil Conservation service of the state of Illinois.

WINS $16,000 — Gloria Lockerman, 12-year-old spelling expert from Baltimore, Md., correctly answered the $16,000 question on the TV quiz show "The $64,000 Question" at New York City. She correctly spelled the seven-word sentence: "The belligerent astigmatic anthropologist annihilated innumerable chrysanthemums." Gloria has till next week to decide if she will go for the $32,000.

Martin to Play With Yankees on 34-Day Furlough

FORT CARSON, Colo. (AP) — Bill (The Kid) Martin, the guy who led the New York Yankees to their last world championship in 1953, will trade his Army corporal's stripes for one of Casey Stengel's pin stripes when he begins a 34-day leave this week.

Martin was not scheduled for discharge until Oct. 8, but he can take his 34 days of accrued leave whenever he desires. A reliable source said he probably would apply for the leave today and had already purchased plane tickets for a Tuesday flight to Kansas City where he will join the team.

Martin was not available for comment because he was on a week-end pass, but he wasn't expected to have anything to say when he returned to the post. The spokesman said Martin was told not to comment publicly because the club wanted to remain on good terms with the Army.

However, Martin was expected to submit his leave application to the commanding officer today, and it was to be acted upon immediately.

Strike Over, But Mrs. Quigley's Spouse Still Out

CHICAGO (AP) — The two-week strike at the Harrison Sheet Steel Co. was officially ended today. Mrs. Esther Quigley herself went to the plant for a first-hand check and saw the men return to their jobs.

The red-haired housewife whose actions have made the walkout a lively news item said all of the strikers were back with the exception of her husband, Andrew.

Andrew, who has been locked out of Mrs. Quigley's apartment pending strike settlement, will return Tuesday, company officials said. He and four other strike leaders were fired last week, but the firm has agreed to take them back.

Never A Match Race Like Swaps-Nashua--McCarthy

By CLEM MCCARTHY
Written for NEA Service

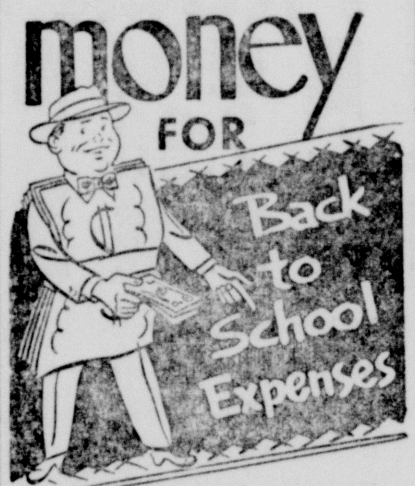

CHICAGO (NEA) — They have been "running your horse against mine" since Thomas Jefferson's unnamed ran colt beat George Washington's Magnolia.

I've seen a dozen or more match races, starting with the dead heat between Domino and Dobbins at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., in 1893.

Ben Lindheimer, who is bringing Swaps and Nashua together again at Washington Park, Aug. 31, also staged the last match race of any importance in Chicago 10 years ago. The fillies, Louis B. Mayer's Busher and Brownell Combs' Durazna, each carrying 115 pounds, raced shoulder to shoulder for the better part of a mile, Busher drawing away at the end to win by almost a length and going on to be the Horse of the Year.

But I doubt if all the match races since the ante bellum battle between American Eclipse, representing the North, and Sir Henry, the South's color-bearer — and you can wrap them together—gained the interest of the upcoming dog fight.

Australia Shuts Out Americans For Davis Cup

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP) — Australia won the Davis Cup with a 5-0 shutout and threatened today to snatch another bit of hardware from America's tennis showcase by winning the U. S. men's singles crown in a 10-day grind beginning Friday.

Ken Rosewall, Lew Hoad and Rex Hartwig, a trio of "whiz kids" whose sensational play produced the worst American defeat in 20 years of Davis Cup play, were one-two-three on the list of favorites for the next big show at Forest Hills and even Aussie Captain Harry Hopman couldn't say which was in the best form.

All three looked tremendous as they completed a three-day sweep in the Davis Cup challenge round Sunday and regained the trophy they surrendered only last December to Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia.

Hoad In Top Form

Hoad walloped Trabert in four sets on the first day and tripped Seixas in four Sunday. Rosewall bowled over Seixas in four sets on the first day and defeated Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., a substitute for Trabert, in the four set wind-up. In between, Hoad paired with Hartwig to score the clinching victory in a five set doubles match against Seixas and Trabert on Saturday.

Except to prove they could win even when the pressure was off, Sunday's matches proved little. Hoad lost a set to Seixas, who had beaten him eight of 10 previous matches, but rallied to make it a rout, 7-9, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4. Then Rosewall trounced Richardson, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, to complete a 5-0 score for the Aussies.

Pat Summerall's 27-yard field goal with 18 seconds left to play earned the Chicago Cardinals a 17-16 triumph over the Detroit Lions, the defending Western Division champions. ## Legion Blasts Out 13-1 Win Over Newburgh

The Harrisburg Legion baseball team continued its torrid hitting pace Sunday afternoon as they downed a fine looking Newburgh, Ind., club by a 13 to 1 score at the local park diamond.

Fourteen hits were racked up by the locals in scoring their runs; with a home run by Dick Odle, two triples by Bob Dallas and a triple and double by Harold Gully being the big blows.

Don Wallace pitched all the way for the Legion and reared up his fifth win without a loss since joining the club recently. Wallace allowed the visitors but seven safeties and their only run crossed the plate in the ninth inning after the locals had built up their massive lead.

The Legion started the onslaught early when they scored three times in the bottom of the first inning on a walk to Odle and triples by Gully and Dallas followed by McNew's single. Odle slammed out his line drive homer in the second to add another marker and the home team practically broke up the ball game in the fifth when they tallied four more runs. Odle again led off the inning with a single and Williams walked after which Griffith singled to load the sacks. Gully punched a double to center to unload the bases. Logsdon singled to drive Gully across with the fourth run of the inning. Singles by Odle, Williams and Gully netted the Legion their ninth run in the sixth and the locals came up with four unearned runs in the seventh to run their total to 13.

When the visitors committed three fielding errors after two were out.

B. Garrett, C. Garrett and Groover toiled on the hill for the losers with Callis doing the catching. Dick Romanosky caught all the way for the Legion.

The Legion will play at Uniontown, Ky., Labor Day when they face Big Jim Bumpus and his Cardinals again. Definite arrangements have not as yet been completed for a Sunday game with the old Hickory Barons at Gallatin, Tenn., but it is expected that the locals will play there barring any unforeseen hitches, on Sept. 4.

Stars Nose Out Carterville 6-5

The Harrisburg Stars travelled to Carterville Sunday and downed the home club, 6-5. The decision gives the two teams an even break in a four-game series for the season.

Ray Siskys was on the mound for Harrisburg and went the distance, giving up 7 hits, walking 10 and striking out six. Although his control was shaky at times, Sisky turned in a creditable performance against the hard-hitting Carterville team. Floyd Shewmake was the receiver, playing a good game behind the plate and showing good speed on the bases that included a steal of home.

Top defensive play of the game was turned in by Rod Smith, Star left fielder, when he made a tremendous leaping catch of a line drive that was labeled for extra

A. L. Contenders Cannot Keep from Losing; Indians Drop 2, Sox, Yanks Split

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

The American League pennant race has turned into a "losing" proposition and the faltering Yankees seem quite content to back into the World Series since no one else shows any signs of heading them off.

The Yankees were in first place by a half game today but they got there more or less by default.

Cleveland paved the way by dropping a doubleheader to Washington Sunday while the buckling Bronx Bombers, who have dropped three of their last four games, split a twin bill with the White Sox.

It's a toss-up which club is playing the worst ball, league-leading New York, second-place Chicago or third-place Cleveland. The White Sox who had a chance to take over first place Sunday, have dropped five of their last eight while the Indians, now one game off the pace, have lost four of their last seven.

At the current pace, the league could come up with its weakest World Series representative since the Tigers won the 1945 pennant with a meager total of 68 victories.

Kennedy Wins Nightcap
Home runs by Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra helped Whitey Ford to his 15th victory as the Yankees won the opener, 6-1. But a three-run homer by Bob Kennedy in the first inning stood up all the way to give the White Sox a 3-2 triumph in the nightcap.

The Senators chased Art Houtteman to win the opener, 8-2, behind a brilliant one-hit relief job by southpaw Chuck Stobbs over the last 6 1-3 innings, and pounded out 15 hits, including four by Eddie Yost, to cop the nightcap, 13-4. Washington broke a 1 all tie and routed Mike Garcia with an eight run burst in the seventh.

Eddie Joost poled two home runs and Grady Hatton and Ted Williams one each as the Red Sox mauled the Athletics, 14-2. Hatton's homer came with the bases loaded in the first inning and big Frank Sullivan coasted to his 16th victory after that.

The scheduled game between the Orioles and Tigers was postponed because of rain.

The Dodgers gained a game and a half, increasing their National League lead to 11½ games, by beating the Cardinals, 6-1, while the second-place Braves bowed twice to the last-place Pirates, 5-3 and 2-0.

Cards Eliminated
Carl Spooner pitched his first complete game of the season for the Dodgers while eliminating the Cards from any mathematical chance of winning the pennant. Spooner struck out nine and gave up six hits, including a homer by Rip Repulski. Gil Hodges and Roy Campanella homered for the Dodgers.

Despite homers by Eddie Mathews and Bobby Thomson, the Pirates rallied for four runs in the eighth inning to overcome a 3-0 Milwaukee lead in the first game of their doubleheader while Vern Law hurled a four-hitter to outpitch veteran Warren Spahn and rack up bases. Smith also made other outstanding catches and at the plate collected two hits in four tries.

Harrisburg jumped out in front in the second when Harrison singled, stole second and came home on a hit by Karnes.

In the third Carterville took the lead on three walks, a wild pitch and a single, accounting for three markers.

A big four-run eighth inning ended the game for the Stars. During the rally Price singled, Zeigler walked, Shewmake singled, Smith doubled and Harrison singled.

Next Sunday the Stars will be host to the Evansville College All-Stars.

File Subpena Request Against Nickell in Food Hauling Hearing

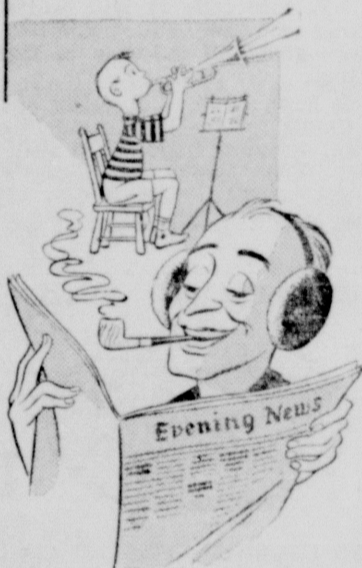

SPRINGFIELD (CP)—A request to subpoena Supt. of Public Instruction Vernon L. Nickell in a hearing on the Cox Transit Company's school food hauling contract was filed today with the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The request was filed after counsel for Cox charged a letter from the Post Office Department had been "leaked" to opposition attorneys by a Nickell employee.

However, hearing examiner Francis C. Blair said the subpoena request would not be granted since the commission is out of town, and it is the custom for the whole commission to decide on the issuance of subpoenas.

Three unsuccessful bidders for the contract, Hayes Freight Lines Inc. and Dunbar & Co., both of Springfield, and General Transfer Co., Decatur, are fighting award of a temporary carrier permit to Cox to carry out the contract.

U. N. Charges Reds Kept Medical Treatment from Bumpas, Flier Shot Down

PANMUNJOM, Korea (CP)—The United Nations Military Command charged today that the Communists withheld proper medical treatment from a shot-down U. S. flier and tried to "exploit" the dangerously wounded man for "propaganda."

The U. N. said that 2nd Lt. Guy H. Bumpas, Jackson, Miss., flier now freed by the Communists, apparently received no medical treatment from the Reds until the second day after they shot down his plane on Aug. 17.

Then the Reds only sewed up his wounds in a way which could have caused meningitis, the U. N. charged at a meeting with the Communists.

Bumpas was freed on Aug. 23 near the place where his light training plane was shot down over the demilitarized zone which separates North and South Korea. He was flown to Tokyo and is being treated in a U. S. Air Force hospital.

"He cannot recall receiving any medical treatment until the second night following his crash," Maj. Gen. Harlan C. Parks of the U. S. Air Force told the Communists in a Korean Armistice Commission meeting. "That which was then received consisted only of sewing up his wounds." Parks is the senior U. N. member of the commission.

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP)—Bermuda residents prepared for a possible assault by Hurricane Edith today but weather experts said it appeared the weakening storm would miss the U. S. mainland.

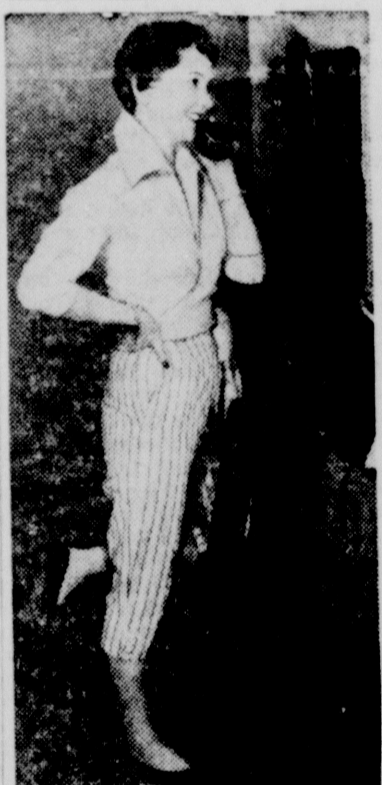

The five-day-old storm was expected to pass by Bermuda late today and weathermen said it will only brush the island if it doesn't change course.

Truman Blasts Eisenhower

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (CP)—Former President Harry S. Truman indicated today there would be no letup in his fiery "give 'em hell" campaign against the Eisenhower administration.

The former Democratic standard-bearer was expected to fire his second salvo against the Republicans in the principal speech at a Michigan Democratic "strategy" conference here tonight.

He unleashed the opening round blast of his pre-election year campaign at an Indiana Democratic conference at French Lick, Ind., Saturday and immediately drew sharp criticism from administration supporters.

Mr. Truman told the Indiana conference that Mr. Eisenhower has been guilty of "misrepresentation and demagoguery" ever since his election. He said the President never misses a chance to "befuddle the issues."

Foreign Intrigue: Blueprints Stolen

TOKYO (CP)—Blueprints of Japan's first rockets were stolen from a car parked on Tokyo's busiest street Saturday night, it was learned today.

The plans were for the bay rockets now being tested by Tokyo University Professor Hideo Itokawa for the forthcoming Geophysical Year. He told police he missed the blueprints after having dinner at a Ginza restaurant.
